

Satan's Plan to Destroy America

Let me set the stage:

She was born an infant nation from people...yes people...who were desperate for freedom. And the most common thread that ran through all of the people was a desperate NEED to be able to raise their families in freedom to worship Christ. ...Worship Jesus with no interference from the king who made laws to focus and narrow their worship under the government's dictates.

The new nation was empowered by the commonality of passion for that freedom. Her citizens had become profitable in the new world. Yet they were willing to expend all they had to protect their freedom. When push came to shove they were willing even to give their lives that Freedom could survive.

And survive it did! But bleed they did as well. God saw their devotion to the cause of Freedom. Miracle after miracle occurred. On the verge of almost sure defeat, George Washington led the little army in its entirety across the river under cover of night and the silence of dense fog to ultimate victory over the strongest military of Europe. The patriot's victorious rebellion from tyranny culminated in the birth of a nation of FREEDOM.

Then, late in the first generation of FREEDOM an ill-advised incursion to "liberate" Canada resulted in the War of 1812. Mother England saw its chance to revisit its former colonies and recoup her colonial claim and her tarnished world prestige. Everything was going badly for the United States. Every indication of failure was clear. Could the Grand Experiment of self-government be over so soon? President Madison said, "If this freedom be abused, it is an offense against God, not against man." He watched in horror as Washington D. C. was burning.

Then, from nowhere, came a great hurricane. It's downpour of rain extinguished the fires that were set in almost every government building in the Capital city. (Only the Post Office was not torched by British soldiers). Tornados spun out of the hurricane. British soldiers hung onto saplings for dear life. Some say that in the whole war, the Brits suffered more casualties from the storm than from the defending patriots. After retreating, the Brits regrouped. As the Red-coats swept up the eastern coastlines effectively unopposed, an unknown sniper took a clear shot and killed British General Ross. The loss of General Ross is described by historians as being as devastating as it would have been if General Eisenhower were to have died the day before D-Day.

England sent her vast Navy to Baltimore Harbor. In the rocket's red glare, one of the 200 pound bombs did not burst in air, but fell directly on the roof of Fort McHenry's huge gun-powder room...and bounced off without exploding. The English Navy expended itself and disappeared over the eastern horizon. The war was over! America was still free. Her citizens had the Freedom they had passionately fought for. "...In God, all things are [indeed] possible."
Matthew 19:26

But Satan, the devious, treacherous, traitorous, anti-God fallen angel had failed to destroy the United States with the most powerful army and navy in the whole world. So he would resort to the indirect approach. It would take longer...but, oh well...

Remember, the first words that Satan spoke to mankind were, "Hath God said..." He clearly recognized the existence of God the Creator, but the words planted a question in the Garden where Adam "walked with God in the cool of the day." With his question, doubt crept into the human mind. That led to the fall of man and the expulsion from the Garden of Eden paradise. Then, he used his most lofty powers of persuasion when he tempted Christ for forty days. Don't lose sight of how Jesus overcame the Devil. Jesus replied, "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that [comes] from the mouth of God." Rejecting the Word of God puts us on the wrong track. See John 14:6

The Devil should have known. He thought he had destroyed the Hope of Mankind at Calvary. But instead by Jesus' death on the cross, Redemption was purchased for broken people. Faith in Christ could not be killed. The more persecution, the more the church grew. But he thrives on the bitter taste of the destruction of men, made in the image of God.

Eighteen hundred years passed. The Reformation, the printed Bible, and wave after wave of Awakenings and Revivals occurred. The secular age of enlightenment had tempted unregenerate people to seek "alternative beliefs." They looked for anything to believe in other than the Holy God.

The Enemy searched for a man to be his banner-carrier. It should be someone within the "Christian community." One who would champion the intellect of mankind. ...A counterfeit who could "explain" the origin of man beyond the Biblical account of creation.

DARWIN

Conveniently, a popular theological belief at the time was called Natural Theology. The authority of the Bible was under intense scrutiny. Many tried to prove that the Bible was untrustworthy in matters of science, though it was filled with good moral principles. In that day a theology student named Charles Darwin was enrolled at Cambridge University. His grandfather Erasmus Darwin, a well known skeptic, was the author of "Zoonomia" arguing that all life evolved over millions of years from lower lifeforms. So in 1835 when Charles Darwin set out on a five year voyage and exploration of the Galapagos Islands, he was full of preconceived notions to "prove" Biblical Creation "less than true."

Darwin's theory is tightly wrapped around two principles.

- The world has existed for billions of years
- Man...as well as all other life ascended from lower animals

The theory fell upon fertile ears in a time marked by a raging spirit of rebellion.

"I had gradually come, by this time, to see that the Old Testament from its manifestly false history of the world... was no more to be trusted than the sacred books of the Hindus, or the beliefs of any barbarian." Charles Darwin Autobiography

"For the evolutionist the earth is billions of years old. About anything is possible in that amount of time. Time is in fact the hero of the plot. Given so much time, the impossible is possible, the possible probable, the probable, virtually certain. One has only to wait. Time itself performs miracles." George Wald.

And so the Enemy's plot was set. England, as well as other parts of Europe, had been a fertile source of Christianity. That must be broken up. How better than to first create doubt about the authenticity of the Bible.

G. Richard Bosarth says in 'THE MEANING OF EVOLUTION', "The day will come when the evidence constantly accumulates around the evolutionary theory and becomes so massively persuasive that even the last and most fundamental Christian warriors will have to lay down their arms and surrender unconditionally. I believe that day will be the end of Christianity."

Christianity flourished in the United States from the beginning of the Colonies. But a "falling away" began in Europe resulting in empty churches and cathedrals. Yet powerful America remained the predominate source of missionaries sent around the world. The enemy's first big tool was to plant a misinterpretation about the "separation of church and state." The clear evidence of God's partnership in the foundation of Freedom in a unique government of the people, by the people and for the people had to be destroyed.

While there were bitter people ready to join that task of destruction, the Enemy was working behind the scenes to disparage the Biblical account of Creation.

An unbroken string of collaborators have perpetuated Darwin's theory. To many, Thomas Huxley succeeded in "converting" the theory into "science." A generation later Huxley's grandson was the companion and confidant of Margaret Sanger, founder of Planned Parenthood, the incubator for legalized abortion on demand. Since the inception of Rowe vs. Wade, 53 million unborn babies have been slaughtered.

Darwin believed that man is a result of a process, not a product of the creator. In that world view, life has diminished value. If only the fittest should survive, perhaps we should help the process along. That's what Hitler did. That's what Margret Sanger does through Planned Parenthood. Racism asserts that some people are more valuable than others.

"At a future period, not very distant as measured by centuries, the civilized races of man will almost certainly exterminate and replace the savage races throughout the world."

Charles Darwin, The Decent of Man

"We don't want the word to get out that we want to exterminate the Negro Population."

Margret Sanger; in a December 19, 1939 letter to Dr Clarence Gamble

"In the limitation of this living space lies the compulsion for the struggle for survival, in turn contains the precondition for evolution." And then, "One general law leading to the advancement of all beings...let the strongest live and let the weakest die."

Adolph Hitler

Rudolph Hess, the deputy Fuhrer of the third Reich put it, "National Socialism is nothing other than applied biology." The Nazi's were not just convinced that they were pursuing science, but that they were assisting evolution with the "science" of eugenics.

Ryan Grant

"The most serious charge that can be brought against modern benevolence is that it encourages the perpetuation of defectives, delinquents, and dependants. These are the most dangerous elements in the world community, the most devastating curse on human progress and expression,"

Margaret Sanger, founder of Planned Parenthood.

Sanger and others were totally oblivious to the redemption and regeneration of fallen, sinful, and failed people. Their faith in Christ not only saves for eternity, but incubates society into prosperity.

Satan's step by step strategy to destroy the United States is to separate Christianity and the secular. Then to discredit the Bible while giving more power to the secular. Then make laws limiting Christianity, claiming Christianity to be discriminatory, unfair, intolerant, and cruel.

It is incredible to think that virtually all of America's educational system is completely sold out to the "science" of evolution. All who believe the Biblical account of Creation are cast aside as wild-eyed fanatics.

How could a "theory" such as evolution gain a choke hold on such a large percentage of the population? The answer is, a little at a time...by spreading their imagined version of the truth. Consider the election of Adolph Hitler. Yes, I said election. While many think Hitler just "took over," he actually came to power by democratic election. He won the majority of the votes. The problem was, not many voters went to the poles. At no time did Hitler get more than 8.5 million votes of the 79.8 million German people. Only 10% of the German people put him into power.

"Their imagined version of the truth"... in any other terms, a lie. To paraphrase Hitler in his book "Mein Kampf," "tell a lie and make it big..." "the bigger it [the lie] is, the more readily they will believe it." In Andy Andrews book, "How Do You Kill 11 Million People?" he tells how relatively few Nazi guards were required to load tens of thousands of people onto railcars. Typically they didn't resist at all. They were told they were going to jobs or for other beneficial experiences. Families were even told to stay together. The awful fact was that millions were being shipped like cattle for slaughter...but to death camps.

The clear message is to watch out for leaders who base their objective on a policy of lies. Ironically, their defense is that they will accuse those who oppose them of being liars. The people believed that "it couldn't happen here," so, lulled by flowing rhetoric, they did nothing. They didn't even vote.

The question is often asked, why didn't the German pastors and church leaders sound an alarm. In a prevalent spirit of denial, pastors apparently didn't speak out until it was too late. By the time they realized what was happening, it was too late. To actively object, to do so put them in real jeopardy of joining their neighbors in the gas chambers. ...Exactly what happened to many.

EVOLUTION: Debunked by Facts

"In the beginning GOD created the heaven and the earth..." Dear Christian friend, do you believe God, or not? [Genesis 1:1]

You stutter and stammer, "well, I'd like to, but... uh, the scientists..."

Let me help you.

- The "scientist[s]" who came up with the "theory" of evolution was an atheist...at least in purpose. Charles Darwin was not the first "Skeptic," but he was the one who spent his life and fortune to find a way to "prove" God's Word to be wrong. Darwin didn't choose an obscure teaching to attack, but the first sentence of the Bible. He [Satan through Darwin] boldly attacked God's explanation of the origin of all things.

- Neither the sun nor the moon supports a billion year old earth. If the sun was that old, by the suspected rate of cooling for that long, it would only be about 70% as hot as it was in Darwin's primordial earth, and thus the earth would now be a block of ice. The moon is known to be gradually moving away from the earth. The rate of movement, in retrospect, would have the moon so close to the earth that tides would have been mountain high millions of years ago.
- Darwin takes a great leap of faith. "From so simple a beginning, endless forms most beautiful and most wonderful have been, and are being evolved." Darwin concludes that the small changes within a kind, some things we can observe, are proof of some things we have never observed...evolution. ...The transformation of one kind of animal into another.
- Natural selection is that the Creator designed the "kinds" of animals with the amazing ability to adapt to unique surroundings. Darwin believed that Natural selection meant the survival of the fittest and that the weaker would be eliminated and the stronger would mutate into something else, being transformed into other kinds of creatures. In the Bible it says 10 times in Genesis that God created things after their kind. Dogs and cats are different kinds. There is simply no evidence they ever mixed. There are no examples of half dog, half cat.

The Great worldwide flood

- Evolutionists hold that since the Bible, in their view, cannot be trusted with regard to creation, Noah's flood is fiction, and thus the Scriptures probably should not be trusted about any references to nature.
- Even today most Christians and Jews have a limited understanding about Noah's flood. We know about forty days of rain. But very little is said about a huge cataclysm that began the same day that rain fell the first time. The "Great Deep" was broken up, opening up all the earth's subterranean springs [fountains]. But it was not clear just how big a deal that was until the great tsunami in Indonesia, then especially in Japan. Both were triggered by big earthquakes. The March 2011 quake off the coast of Japan was 9.3 on the Richter Scale. But it was not close to big enough to fracture the earth's crust...all over the world at the same time. We do not know how big those earthquakes were. Could they have been 90 on the "Richter Scale"...or 900?

Just suppose worldwide unimaginatively massive tsunamis that must have sloshed much of the water out of the oceans. And yes, even the mountains would have been covered with the water. The landscape would never again be the same. Then, after the rain and the earthquakes suddenly stopped, how long would it take for the flooding to subside? Do you think maybe 150 days...like Genesis 7:24 says? Would very rapid erosion occur when millions of cubic miles of water ran back into the oceans, like maybe how the mile deep grand canyon would have been carved out?

- There are major questions with carbon dating as certain determination of age. Ash and lava from the 1980 eruption of Mt. St. Helens have tested to be 2.4 millions old. [I have some of that ash in a bottle].

You must admit that it takes more faith to believe that man came from some single-celled protoplasm (that amazingly just came out of nothing), than to believe in a Creator. Evolution was certainly not universally accepted by all scientists.

- English astronomer and mathematician Sir Fredrick Hoyle, an atheist himself, compared the random emergence of even the simplest cell without panspermia to the likelihood that "a tornado sweeping through a junk-yard might assemble a Boeing 747 from the materials therein." For all practical purposes, this means a probably of Zero! He referred to it as nonsense of a high order. Hoyle also compared the chance of obtaining even a single functioning protein by chance combination of amino acids to a solar system full of blind men solving Rubik's Cubes simultaneously.

From the intuition of Mark Twain:

- I have been scientifically studying the traits and dispositions of the "lower animals" (so-called,) and contrasting them with the traits and dispositions of man. I find the result profoundly humiliating to me. For it obliges me to renounce my allegiance to the Darwinian theory of the Ascent of Man from the Lower Animals; since it now seems plain to me that that theory ought to be vacated in favor of a new and truer one, this new and truer one to be named the Descent of Man from the Higher Animals.
Mark Twain

- It doesn't require a vast intellect to deduct that man when left to his own devices is not getting better and better.
Ken Bain

Conclusion

The Enemy of man cannot stand for there to be a United States of America. Well, at least not an America where there is FREEDOM. A nation that is exceptional in all the history of the earth. A nation whose government answers to her people, not people who answer to the government. That Almighty God is a partner...a senior partner...in the invention, implementation, and sustaining of America is beyond argument or ploy.

The Devil cannot over power a people who are in partnership with God. But what he has done is contrive a plan to get God's own people to doubt him, then abandon him. Satan's tool was the theory of evolution. Tell a lie, make it a big one. The bigger it is, the more readily they will believe it. For the deception to grow, all it takes is time. 177 years after Charles Darwin embarked on his discovery voyage to the Galapagos Islands, in its 2012 national Convention, the Democratic Party clearly voted, not once but three times, to remove the Name of God from its platform.

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.
2 Chronicles 7:14
